FIVE CENTS

AN APPEAL to the citizens of Monroe County to re-establish the Red Cross blood donor program on its previous high standard of operation was sounded yesterday by Dr. M. J. Leitner, pathologist at Monroe County General Hospital.

How the program plays a growing role in the hospital's daily battle to save human life and how the lack of readily available blood of all types handicaps the hospital are detailed in a communication sent to The Daily Record and addressed to all citizens of the county.

"As director of the laboratories of the General Hospital," Dr. Leitner said, "it is one of my duties to supervise the hospital blood bank."

"For about five years, we have been fortunate in this county to have had a never-ending supply of blood available to meet all the transfusion needs at the hospital."

Rare Types
"This has included even several hundred pints of blood of rare types which could not possibly have been procured within the boundaries of Monroe County."

"This abundant supply of blood has been made possible by the voluntary donations of blood of the citizens of Monroe County to the Red Cross Regional Blood Center at Wilkes-Barre. The system has worked very effectively to the advantage of patient, hospital and doctor. In many instances, the immediate availability of blood in emergency has been life saving."

"During the present year, unfortunately, the donations of blood have fallen far behind the quota which must be met by the county to maintain its right to obtain unlimited amounts of blood from the regional blood center."

"On several occasions, it has been necessary for me or for other members of the hospital staff to call upon donors to come directly to the hospital to provide blood in certain emergency situations when the blood was not available in our own blood bank or from the Regional Center. This has been due to the fact that rare types of blood have at times been unavailable in either of these places."

"On the surface, to the lay public and perhaps to the patient and to the patient's family, this has appeared to be a satisfactory arrangement. However, it is necessary to explain why this sort of procedure is not particularly desirable and to explain why, in my professional capacity, I am appealing to you to re-establish the previously generous donations of blood so that our quota can be maintained."

"First, let me explain that to be able to maintain a blood bank with all the possibly necessary types of blood including the rare types which occur perhaps only in one out of several hundred people, it is necessary to draw on a population of a hundred thousand or more people. The population of the County itself could not possibly provide these unusual blood types even though it might have enough of the more common ones. (Please turn to Page 12)

Baby Nurse Pleads Guilty

NEW HAVEN, Oct. 24 (AP)—Big blonde baby attendant Virginia Jaspers, accused of shaking two infants to death in fits of uncontrollable rage, today pleaded guilty to two counts of manslaughter.

Sentencing was postponed until next month, pending a probation officer's report.

Nerves
Police said she admitted shaking the infants "because sometimes babies get on my nerves."
Miss Jaspers, who is six feet and weighs 220 pounds, pleaded innocent several weeks ago, but today she was taken before Superior Court judge and changed her plea to guilty.

Warrants Issued For TV Stars

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 24 (AP)—Warrants were issued today in Philadelphia's vice ring case, accusing three radio-television figures and seven other men with corrupting the morals of teen-age girls.

Named in the warrants were radio news commentator Steve Allison, 41, who ran a disc jockey news program over station WPEN; Jack Barry, a late news announcer on the same station; and Bob Horn, 40, Levittown, Pa., who was dropped from a teen-ager afternoon show by station WFIL-TV last June when he was arrested on a drunken driving charge.

Hungary Continues Fight Against Reds

VIENNA, Oct. 24 (AP)—Hungary's bloody rebellion against Soviet domination and the Budapest Red leadership blazed through its second night and spread to the provinces.

But apparently it was being crushed systematically tonight by overpowering Russian armed forces.

Soviet tanks, planes and troops were thrown into the battle for the decisive blow against the uprising workers and students.

Late tonight the Budapest regime claimed it had mastered the rebels but admitted fighting went on.

Moscow and East Berlin broadcasts followed quickly with claims that the rebels were beaten.

Many Killed
Eyewitnesses returning to Austria from Hungary reported many hundreds have been killed in battle.

The first stories were brought out of Hungary by Austrian business men tonight.

They told reporters at the border that Hungarians told them fighting outside Budapest was going on in the cities of Debrecen, Szolnok and Szeged.

The Austrian travelers said the number of dead in Budapest alone amounted to many hundreds as Russian tanks, jet planes, machine-gun batteries and grenades were thrown against rebel hands composed of students and workers.

The Communist government had confidently believed the rebels would collapse by 2 p.m. That was the time of the first ultimatum promising amnesty. Then the amnesty was extended to 6 p.m. Still the rebels ignored it defiantly.

Then the government declared all-out war, saying it would execute every rebel who fought on.

Heavy Fighting
But as midnight neared radio Budapest still admitted there was heavy fighting in sections of the capital.

In the latest Budapest broadcasts the government claimed the Russians and Hungarian troops were winning the battle of Budapest and that "more and more youngsters" were surrendering and abandoning their arms.

There was still no explanation from either side of how the rebels had obtained guns enough to hold off the combined attack of Russian and Hungarian forces in a lightning revolt that began after an orderly street demonstration Tuesday.

Radio Budapest claimed that the rebels had machine guns and hand grenades when they attempted to smash into a Budapest military barracks.

"Using all the force at their command the garrison repulsed the attackers," the radio said. It added that the defenders were bracing for a new assault by the rebels.

As the fighting passed the 24-hour mark at 9 p.m. Wednesday past radio alternately sharpened and softened its tone.

President To Make Three Campaign Trips Next Week

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24 (AP)—President Eisenhower will make three separate campaign trips next week, traveling into five states including three in the South which supported him in 1952.

Press secretary James Hagerty emphasized that Eisenhower will return to Washington at the end of each day, primarily to keep tabs on developments in the Soviet satellite states.

Eisenhower will fly to Florida and Virginia on Monday; Texas and Oklahoma on Wednesday; and Pennsylvania on Thursday. He will make six speeches, five of them at airports. The only major address will be at Philadelphia.

These activities will carry the President's campaign through Nov. 1—just five days shy of the Nov. 6 election. But Hagerty made it clear Eisenhower will be delivering more speeches before the campaign windup.

No Details
The White House hasn't detailed any plans beyond Nov. 1. There have been reports, however, that Eisenhower will wrap up his campaign with a major address in Boston on election eve.

Three of the six speeches the President has scheduled for next week will be made Monday.

Eisenhower will leave Washington at 8:40 a.m., and fly to Miami for a noon appearance at International Airport there. He then will fly to Jacksonville, Fla., arriving for a talk at Ineson Airfield at 2:05 p.m.

Winging back to the capital, Eisenhower will stop at Byrd Field, Richmond, Va., for an airport address about 4:40 p.m.

Florida and Virginia were among the four Southern states which Eisenhower won in 1952. On Wednesday he will visit a third—Texas. The fourth was Tennessee.

Bloomer Denies Kidnap Charge

SCRANTON, Oct. 24 (AP)—Harry Bloomer, 23, denied on the witness stand today that he kidnapped a 17-year-old babysitter. He said that she went with him of her own free will.

The former Youngstown, Ohio, man is on trial for the kidnapping of Betsy Jane Long, 17, of Sweet Valley, Luzerne County. He began testimony in his own behalf today before a jury and Federal Judge John W. Murphy.

Kefauver Blasts Moves By Wilson

DETROIT, Mich., Oct. 24 (AP)—Sen. Estes Kefauver said today that Secretary of Defense Charles Wilson's defense procurement policy "has lessened our defense against attack" by concentrating defense contracts in a few large corporations.

The Democratic vice-presidential candidate also accused Wilson former head of General Motors, of "driving to the wall" Studebaker-Packard Motor Co. after its merger "to survive General Motors competition."

Kefauver singled out Wilson for his sharpest attack as he campaigned through this Motor City today assailing what he called Republican "stopgap election eve prosperity."

Michigan
Tonight, in a speech prepared for delivery at Carpenter's Hall in the Michigan congressional district represented by Democratic Rep. Martha Griffiths, he ticked off what he said was the Republican record on national issues.

He attributed to the Eisenhower administration "daredevil stunts on the brink of war," and pictured Vice President Nixon as the "dominant force" of the Republican party if Eisenhower is returned to the White House as a "lame duck president."

Thruway Work May Begin Next Summer

Eisenhower Sees Safety In H-Bomb

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24 (AP)—President Eisenhower today called the hydrogen bomb a great deterrent to war—a weapon, he said, which tells any potential enemy it would be "suicidal" to attack America.

The President set forth his views in responding to questions put by seven women on a nationwide TV-radio program sponsored by the Republican Congressional Campaign Committee. The Committee said the women it chose to appear on the program were "representative of all walks of life and various sections of the country."

In discussing the H-bomb, Eisenhower did not touch on the proposal by Adlai Stevenson, that this country take the lead to end H-bomb tests.

However, on another proposal advanced by Stevenson—that thought be given to ending the military draft—Eisenhower stuck to his position that the draft must be continued at this time.

Mrs. Louis Martin, a Negro mother of 12, who lives on a farm near Salisbury, Md., told the President she is worried about the H-bomb, and asked:

"What is the future of our families in this atomic age?"

Solemnly, Eisenhower replied: "The world must find a peaceful solution" to the great problem the superbomb presents.

"We can never have a hydrogen war and still have a civilization," he said.

The President went on to assert that "if we are going to remain secure" in this modern age when "aggression also is possible, we must urge agreement from a position of strength."

He apparently was referring to agreement on international armament control, with an inspection system to assure against violation.

Eisenhower has contended that national security might be jeopardized if H-bomb testing were ended without such an agreement. Stevenson has argued that testing could be banned without this country endangering its security, because it would know if Russia violated a ban. Eisenhower has replied that the system of detecting such blasts is not necessarily 100 per cent effective.

The President said today that from a position of strength America can cooperate with its allies, but could not from a position of weakness.

"Part of that strength," the President added, "is the bomb."

Duff Throws New Verbal Blows At Clark

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 24 (AP)—U. S. Sen. James H. Duff, seeking reelection on the Republican ticket, today continued his personal attack of his Democratic opponent, calling Joseph S. Clark "a man of inherited wealth who runs around the state 'bleeding' for the average guy."

Duff said in a statement issued from his Philadelphia headquarters that Clark, if elected, "will be the biggest roadblock north of the Mason-Dixon to the Eisenhower program."

Against Eisenhower

Duff said the former Philadelphia mayor is "against Eisenhower." "We know that he doesn't like anything that Eisenhower has done or wants to do for the country," Duff declared.

Ike To Seek Compensation Increase For Vets

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24 (AP)—President Eisenhower said today he will ask the next Congress to increase the compensation of totally disabled veterans.

He said he believes they now are undercompensated.

Eisenhower's statements were in a letter to James A. Sheehan, associate editor of the National Tribune. White House press secretary James C. Hagerty described

Sixty Killed In Morocco

RABAT, Morocco, Oct. 24 (AP)—Sixty dead were counted in Morocco today, victims of grim Arab retaliation for the arrest by the French of five leading Algerian rebels. Many were mutilated.

Angry anti-French demonstrations and protest strikes spread across seething North Africa as Arab governments demanded release of the Algerians. In Tripoli, Libya, demonstrators stoned the British Embassy and European cars.

Among the 60 dead, mostly Europeans, were seven French soldiers. They were killed and 24 comrades were wounded in two ambushes in eastern Morocco last night. This was the most serious French military loss reported on Moroccan territory since Morocco cast off its status as a protectorate.

Strike Hard
Rampaging Moroccan strikers struck hard in Meknes and the surrounding countryside yesterday and last night, starting less than 24 hours after the five Algerian rebels were seized by a French coup on a plane flight from Morocco to Tunisia.

The actual cause of the uprising in Meknes appeared to be an accidental shot fired by a Moroccan trooper who wounded himself.

The shot enraged demonstrators in the city of 150,000 and the bloodshed was on. Outside Meknes, French sources said 38 farms, mostly European, were burned.

In Rabat today some 5,000 Arabs waving the green flag of the Al-Badr started a march to the imperial palace. They stopped short, however, after a loudspeaker truck appeared in the name of Sultan Mohammed V that they dispersed peacefully.

Protest strikes in Morocco and Tunisia spread to Tripoli, where a general strike was called. All personnel at Wheelus Field, a U.S. Air Force base in Libya, were restricted to their stations.

False Alarm For Acme
ACME HOSE CO. received a fire alarm at approximately 12:30 a.m. today.

The alarm revealed that the blaze was at East Stroudsburg High School.

There will be school today—it was a false alarm.

Stevenson Raps GOP For 'Deceit'
NEW YORK, Oct. 24 (AP)—Adlai E. Stevenson said tonight the Republicans were waging "a campaign of deceit unmatched in U.S. politics."

"I don't mind telling you that I am good and mad," the Democratic presidential nominee told a party rally at White Plains, in neighboring Westchester County.

"Plenty of Americans are. We ought to be. The Republicans have been treating the American people like so many children who can be put to sleep with a lullaby," he added.

Stevenson said the Democrats have been partisan in the American political tradition "but we haven't tried to deceive the people on the issues—on matters of life and death and of war and peace. The Republicans have!"

Stevenson said the Democrats "told the people for the first time of the danger to us and our children in continued H-bomb tests."

Support
"Two hundred and seventy of the nation's leading nuclear scientists have backed up this warning," he said. "You know these men would not speak out as they have if they didn't feel deeply that mankind is taking a terrible chance with a terrible new force."

Stevenson said Republicans had "sneered" at this warning by calling it "nonsense" and "folly."

"Don't listen to the Democrats, they say," Stevenson went on. "Just trust Ike."

Time and time again in his speech Stevenson ironically used the phrase "Just trust Ike."

Stevenson said the Democrats "have told the people why Vice President Richard Nixon is not a man to be trusted with the most powerful office in the world."

"We have pointed out the blunder and inescapable fact that this hero of the Republican Old Guard is in line for the presidency of the United States—an office he could never attain on his own merit," Stevenson said, adding:

"You know his reactionary voting record and his shameful campaign tactics up to this election year. You know the man behind the newly scrubbed mask."

Sneer
"Yet the Republicans sneer at the perfectly legitimate suggestion that Nixon might become president by calling the truth a smear."

"In effect, they are telling the American people to stop worrying, to stop thinking, to shut up—and just trust Ike."

The speech here was Stevenson's third stop on a night tour of greater New York City and on Long Island.

Stevenson made two other main points in a 12-hour tour of the nation's biggest city and some of its well-to-do suburbs:

1. He told a group of some 700 businessmen, some of whom contributed $1,000 apiece to his campaign, that the Democratic party "is the best friend American business has." He said his party would stop a "march toward bigness" and help the small firms keep operating.

2. He renewed his running attack on Vice President Nixon, telling the Bronx crowd and a women's luncheon of the New York State Liberal party that GOP control may already have passed into the hands of Vice President Nixon.

First Phase Slated For Water Gap

BIDS ON THE first phase of the Stroudsburg Thruway construction are expected to be opened in time for work to begin in the Summer of 1957.

This was revealed yesterday by State Highways Secretary Joseph J. Lawler in a letter to Chief Burgess Hal H. Harris of Stroudsburg.

The first phase will cover that section of the Thruway from Delaware Water Gap to East Stroudsburg.

Lawler said bids on the second phase, from East Stroudsburg to a point north of Stroudsburg near CLU Park, are to be opened about three months after those for the first phase.

In his letter to Burgess Harris, dated Tuesday, the state official said the engineering study is completed. He also reported that the general location of the route has been selected and approved by the Stroudsburg and East Stroudsburg Borough Councils and the U.S. Bureau of Public Roads.

Design

Actual design of the roadway and bridges for both phases have been under way for four months and are now 30 per cent completed, Lawler said. The first part is expected to be finished by March 1, 1957 and the second part by May 1, 1957, the secretary reported.

Final examination of the plans by the central office of the Highway Department and the Federal Bureau of Public Roads will be facilitated, Lawler advised the burgess.

The project, expected to cost more than $10,000,000, was authorized by state highway officials as a means of alleviating the traffic congestion on the main streets of Stroudsburg and East Stroudsburg. It will be financed as part of the federal interstate system, in which the U.S. government pays 90 per cent of the cost.

Suit May Follow Election

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24 (AP)—Asst. Atty. Gen. Warren Olney III said today there will be post-election criminal prosecutions in the south if qualified Negroes are denied the vote in the Nov. 6 election.

He told newsmen that "disfranchisement of colored voters is going forward on a mass basis" through revision of registration roles in some areas of Alabama, Georgia, Louisiana, Mississippi and North Carolina. Some of the procedure involved is "fraudulent" on the face of it, he said.

Opponents
The jet wreckage plunged into the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Saunders, but they weren't there. The engine of the civilian plane, a Cessna 170, crashed into the kitchen of the home of Mrs. Billy Crowe only minutes after she had taken her children—Janice, 1, and Debora, 3—into their living room.

Clement, a trucking company owner, was the pilot of the Cessna. The Clements and Howards had been visiting at Odessa, 12 miles southwest of this west Texas town, and apparently were on their way home.

Scientists See Hopeful Break

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24 (AP)—The Federation of American Scientists said today an international agreement to ban H-bomb tests would be a hopeful break in years of stalled negotiations.

It discussed the question in a statement issued 24 hours after President Eisenhower rejected in detail arguments advanced by Adlai Stevenson, the Democratic presidential candidate, for taking steps now to end the hydrogen bomb explosions.

He said the study group will give particular attention to developing a program aimed at helping churches work more successfully with "alcoholics," and to combat the growing problem of "social drinkers," including teen-agers.

An announcement of decisive importance to anyone about to buy a new automobile

The most exhaustive endurance test ever given an automobile has just been completed by two stock '57 Fords—identical in every respect with cars now being offered by Ford Dealers.

Under the supervision of the United States Auto Club and the Federation Internationale de Automobile, each of these two '57 Fords traveled 50,000 miles in less than 20 days. Ford No. 1 averaged 108.16 mph for the entire run... Ford No. 2, over 107 mph. These averages include time for all pit stops.

In all, the '57 Ford smashed 458 national and international records.

This test was run on the Bonneville Salt Flats in Utah... it was the longest left turn in history.

A car, like a man, is known by its deeds, not words.

That is why, we at Ford, despite our confidence in our '57 cars, let their deeds of accomplishment speak for themselves.

Therefore, we engaged an independent engineering organization to test our '57 cars more thoroughly than any other cars have ever been tested before—in this country or abroad.

We provided them with '57 Fords—cars identical with those now offered by Ford Dealers. The rest we left up to them.

Here is what they did:

They took these cars to the Salt Flats at Bonneville, Utah.

Here, twelve of the world's greatest drivers took over.

In relays they drove these cars night and day for a distance greater than twice around the world... a distance equal to 5 years of normal driving.

Not in all history has a man-built machine traveled so far in so short a time—by land or sea!

But this was not a test of speed—but of endurance of the "Inner Ford." A trial to take the measure of Thunderbird V-8 power without qualification of any kind. A test of running gear—of brakes, of materials in body and chassis. Of steering and roadability, yes, and comfort, too!

A test, indeed, such as no other cars have ever undergone, let alone successfully concluded.

Surely they have told you, in decisive terms, that they are worth more when you buy... and when you sell!

Your Ford Dealer will gladly place at your disposal the new kind of Ford that means a new kind of value for your car-buying dollar—the greatest the world has ever seen.

Passing Of Socialist ALP In New York Won't Be Regretted By Most Citizens

George Sokolsky, columnist whose writings appear every morning in The Daily Record, told yesterday of the passing of the Socialist Labor Party.

Known also as the American Labor Party, its political activities were mainly confined to New York and for years it was charged with being dominated by the Communists.

This party was begun originally as an extreme liberal group to provide a haven for non-Democrats eager to support the late Franklin D. Roosevelt. It achieved its peak of power in 1948 when it swung 500,000 New York votes behind Henry Wallace, Progressive candidate for the presidency.

The vote didn't do Wallace much good, but it cost Harry Truman New York's then 47 electoral votes. His GOP opponent, Thomas E. Dewey, won the state by 50,000 votes. Had Wallace been out of the picture, Mr. Truman would have added materially to his margin over Dewey.

The ALP's only other claim to fame was that it sent the late Vito Marcantonio to Congress for seven consecutive terms before a coalition candidate of the Democrats and Republicans finally unseated him. Marcantonio was widely viewed as a spokesman for the U. S. Communist line.

Now the ALP, having seen its vote dwindle almost to the vanishing point, has quietly given up the ghost. It will be remembered as one of the curious fringe parties of American history. But it will not be missed.

Man Of The Hour Is Public Printer Who Has Saved Taxpayers $13 Million

Raymond Blattenberger is a man for our times.

He's the public printer in Washington—heads the big Government Printing Office which turns out the wordy Congressional Record, all that stuff you get franked through the mail from your Congressman, and gobs of other documents put out by Uncle Sam.

Mr. Blattenberger has been on the job three and a half years.

The other day he walked into the office of Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey and handed the Treasury man a check for two million dollars. That brought to 13 million dollars the sum Mr. Blattenberger has turned back since he took office. He did it by running his shop like he ran his Philadelphia printing business before he went to Washington.

He's cut costs five per cent, raised wages four times, saved up $2,500,000 for new equipment and lopped off nearly 900 employees although business has increased by eight million dollars.

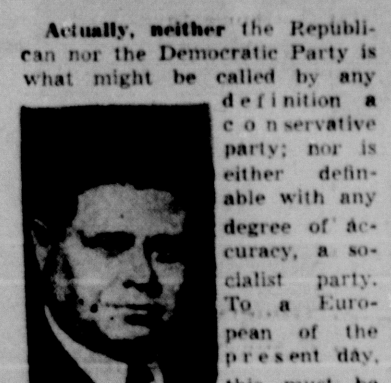

Mr. Blattenberger has a short explanation for all this. He said he understood that was what he was to do when President Eisenhower appointed him.

"If every department of the Government could equal what Mr. Blattenberger is doing," said Secretary Humphrey, "our financial problems would be greatly reduced."

And then some.

George Sokolsky Says...

New States' Rights Party Adopts Program Which Is Definitely Of Conservative Tone

Actually, neither the Republican nor the Democratic Party is what might be called by any definition a conservative party; nor is either definable with any degree of accuracy, a socialist party. To a European of the present day, this must be very confusing because in nearly every country outside the Communist dictatorship, there is a conservative and a socialist element in the population.

Are we so very different? I have heard many speak of the middle-of-the-road but this is an indefinite term which only adds to one's confusion. If there is no conservative party and no socialist party, what can be the middle? Obviously, if there are no ends, there is no middle. The answer must be that in the United States, we no longer have political parties, only mechanisms for electing officials.

Now along comes the States' Rights group which is organizing a new political party that is definitely conservative. This party has nominated T. Coleman Andrews of Virginia for President and Thomas H. Werdel of California for Vice President. It will appear on the ballots of, I believe, 14 states.

This party has a clear-cut program which is a conservative one. It stands for States' Rights based upon a rigid interpretation of the Tenth Amendment to the Constitution. It stands for Tax Reform, particularly for the abolition of the graduated income tax which it regards as having been taken from Karl Marx's plan for the destruction of capitalism as specified in the Communist Manifesto. The new party seeks to reverse the 'dangerous trend toward socialism' in the United States. It seeks to terminate the 'Status of Forces Treaty' by which our troops abroad are subject to foreign courts. It favors the original Bricker Amendment, opposes the Atlantic Union and World Government, desires American Air Supremacy and hopes to end conscription.

This is a positive program which can be accepted or rejected for specific reasons. Naturally, the States' Rights Party does not expect to win in 1956 but it would like to get enough electoral votes to throw the election into the House of Representatives. Under such circumstances, the Republican and Democratic Parties would negotiate with T. Coleman Andrews for his electoral votes.

What seems to be forgotten by this generation of Americans is that citizens do not vote for candidates for President and Vice President. They vote for electors. Constitutionally and theoretically, these electors may choose whomsoever they please. If no one is chosen, that is, if no one has a majority of the College of Electors, the choice of a President goes to the House of Representatives who may choose in accordance with the provisions of the 12th Amendment to the Constitution which does not recognize the existence of political parties.

Thus, what the new party could do, if it got enough electoral votes in a tight election, is either to force the other political parties to negotiate with it for its electoral votes or it could throw the election into the House of Representatives.

The Republican Party ran a candidate in 1856, John C. Fremont, with the object of establishing itself as a political party. Fremont was defeated. In 1860, this party ran Abraham Lincoln, who not only won, but who was re-elected in 1864. The Republican Party was no less radical in its tone in 1856 than the States' Rights Party seems to be today. The leaders of the new party, apart from Andrews and Werdel, are Clarence E. Manion, John U. Barr and General Bonner Fellers. Among its national committee are Spruille Braden, formerly Ambassador to the Argentine, Charles Edison, formerly Governor of New Jersey and Secretary of the Navy, and General George E. Stratemeyer, to select a few names. As I look at the names, there are Republicans, Democrats and no party people. Many are of the organization called "For America."

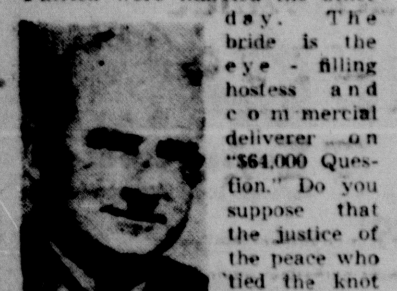

It is an interesting beginning, particularly in view of the fact that the parties on the Left are dying. It is possible to foresee that if Adlai Stevenson is defeated, the Democratic Party may move further to the Left, accumulating the remnants of the Communist, Socialist, and Socialist Labor Parties, the ADA Fabians who may choose in accordance with the provisions of the 12th Amendment to the Constitution which does not recognize the existence of political parties.

Thus, what the new party could do, if it got enough electoral votes in a tight election, is either to force the other political

The Once Over

Phil Silvers, musical comedy and TV comedian, and Evelyn Patrick were married the other day. The bride is the eye-filling hostess and a commercial deliverer on a "564,000 Question." Do you suppose that the Justice of the peace who tied the knot followed this question "Do you take this man, etc?" with "Do you wish to answer now or come back next week?"

Evelyn came out of Orlando, Fla., only two years ago to achieve fame on the big jackpot program. Silvers' latest venture is the Sergeant Bilko airwave show. They were married in the little village of Woodbridge, Conn., which has the quiet of a soundproof booth. Their category was "Broadway Romances." Both gave the right answers, with no competition from Gino Prato, something pretty unusual in the "564,000 Question" format.

The routine could have run along this line: Phil: Want to take an auto ride into the country? You have fifteen seconds to answer. Evelyn: What part of the country? Phil: Into beautiful, picturesque, unspoiled Connecticut. Evelyn: That's a commercial and you forget that I generally do them. Yes, I'd like to go.

Phil: Correct and you win a round trip on the Merritt Parkway. Now to question number two: Name the most romantic military man of the day and hour.

Evelyn: Sergeant Bilko. Phil: Somebody prompted you, but I'll accept that answer. Question three: Identify the object of the sergeant's affection.

Evelyn: Let me think. Phil: Don't be coy. This brings us to the big question which has been in the vault of the Manufacturers' Trust and has never been heard by more than a billion people throughout history. The question is in two parts. One—Will you be my wife? Two—How soon?

Evelyn: I don't want to make a mistake here, so will take a few seconds. May I answer the second part first?

Phil: Yes. Evelyn: The answer to that part is right away.

Phil: That answers the first part! The next question is whether to phone a Justice of the peace in Woodbridge or New York. Do you wish to go ahead?

Evelyn: What can I lose? Even if I quit I get a Cadillac, don't I? (Take it from here.)

American Literature Obsessed With Dregs

I am not an authority on American literature. I am merely an avid reader who feels short-changed. Who feels great uneasiness about the preoccupation of current writing with the most wretched dregs of life. About their representation as the war and wolf of American life, rather than isolated specific segments more in need of psychiatric attention than analysis from the reading public.

It seems to me that art—whatever its medium—should have as its essential purpose some contribution to our beliefs that human life is a thing to be treasured, not debased. That with all the sins and wickedness and suffering we know to exist, the arts are the best media to communicate the conviction that ugliness is not the mainstream of life.

The public prints are constantly inquiring: "Do we teach our children too much about sex?" Publishers proudly proclaim that a young lady has written a book so shocking that a few years ago young ladies wouldn't have been allowed to read it—let alone write it.

In our movies we are invited to view such monstrous problems as dope peddling, alcoholism, lust, adultery, avarice and insanity—to ponder these delightful episodes "sympathetically and charitably." Who knows when we may not meet 'em, ourselves? Having been properly conditioned to acceptance, we will deal gently and understandingly with our Fate. Nonsense!

Try and Stop Me

Foxy old bird: Farmer Klopfer bought a perky young rooster to add vigor to his flock. The recruit started out being courteous to the old cock, but the veteran wasn't having any of his soft ways. "Divide the hens 50-50?" it snorted. "I should say not!"

Finally, the old bird clucked: "See that tree across the field? I'll race you to it, and the winner takes the entire flock. I ask only that you allow me a 10-yard handicap."

"Sure!" crowed the newcomer, confident that youth would have to be served.

The race started and the young cock let its rival take the lead; then it lit after it, but just as he was about to catch up, Farmer Klopfer tipped with his shotgun and blasted the chaser.

"Dunno why it is," the farmer mused as he reloaded the gun. "but that's the fourth young rooster with mighty peculiar habits to disturb my flock this month!"

An ordinary needle requires 16 operations to make it.

Robert S. Allen Reports

Chandler Unlikely To Give Democrats Much Support

Washington, Oct. 24 — Democratic campaign chiefs are keeping their fingers crossed on that related promise of support by Governor "Happy" Chandler.

Their attitude can be succinctly summed up in the adage: "Seeing is believing."

Reason for their quite frank skepticism is first-hand reports that the ebullient Kentuckian is still far from enthusiastic about the party's presidential and senatorial candidates.

The latter particularly (Senator Earle Clements and former Governor Lawrence Wetherby) are pictured as continuing in Chandler's feuding doghouse.

These backstage reports also stress that he still takes himself very seriously as a presidential possibility and has not forgotten nor forgiven his derisive brush-off at the Chicago convention. That still burns him up.

Foremost among these doubting accounts is that of Representative Frank Chelf (D., Ky.), a senior member of the powerful House Judiciary Committee.

Chelf made a special trip to Washington to warn Democratic campaign leaders.

He told them friendly Chandler had tipped him off on receiving direct word from "Happy" to do nothing for either the presidential or senatorial candidates. Especially barred was financial aid of any kind.

"I'll make it all right," reported Chelf, "but some of the others are being badly hurt. Unless it's stopped, this undercover axing may prove very costly to us."

Another equally disturbing first-hand report was from a Senate official.

He was sent to Kentucky for the express purpose of pleading with Chandler to cease his undercover warring and to help elect the party's ticket. The results of this special mission are debatable.

Before the Senate emissary could say a word, "Happy" started telling him—and continued to do so for a half hour.

Striding back and forth in front of the seated Senate official, Chandler fulminated against Clements and Wetherby, slapped at Stevenson and Kefauver, and indicated clearly he is already thinking in terms of 1960.

"If Clements and Wetherby had supported me at Chicago," thundered "Happy," "we could have deadlocked that convention and I could have been nominated. It was a perfect set-up for that. The delegate really didn't want either Stevenson or Kefauver. Truman hit it on the nail in those statements of his. So I'm going to let them all go down the drain this year, and then we'll see who is Mr. Big in 1960."

As an afterthought, Chandler added, "It's too late now to do anything anyway. People have their minds made up on how they are going to vote."

Politics — The State Department will publish before election another volume of documents on U. S. policy in China during and following World War II. That's the inside word the Senate Appropriations Committee has received from G. Bernard Noble, who is preparing the publication. Its release is being strongly urged by Senate Republican Leader William Knowland, Calif., and Senator Styles Bridges, N. H., ranking GOP member of the Committee. . . . AFL-CIO leaders are privately claiming their intensified electioneering activities have produced at least a 50 percent increase in registration by union workers over 1954. . . . Other issues are at stake in the coming election besides candidates. Voters in eleven states will ballot on bond issues totaling $150,000,000 to pay bonuses to Korean war veterans.

Another decline in farm prices will be reported by the Agriculture Department in its monthly statement, due October 31. The Joint Congressional Committee on the Economic Report has been advised the exact amount of this drop, as of October 15, is still incomplete, but the total will be less than on September 15. The latest decline will be the fourth in succession since June 15 when the parity ratio was 86 percent. By September 15, it had sunk to 82 percent. . . . One of Georgia's Democratic congressmen is having the fight of his political career for re-election. He is Representative James C. Davis, who is being aggressively challenged by Randolph Throver, Republican, who is getting a lot of outside help. Bert Struby, plain-talking editor of the Macon Telegraph and News, reports: "It is unofficially stated that the GOP will spend $25,000 promoting the candidacy of Mr. Throver. He is making the county unit system a major issue." . . . Stevenson-Kefauver managers are ruling out any more college campuses for electioneering. Reason for this ban is what they claim is "reliable word" that the GOP is ready to organize hostile student demonstrations at such Democratic meetings. . . . A private poll by a business organization, estimates that as of October 10, around 500,000 Michigan voters were still "undecided." Of this big total, 32 percent were small businessmen; 5 percent were union members; and 4 percent farmers.

Since writing this column we've had a lot of indignation, but very little suggestion—quite unlike the day when this reporter used to make the rounds of sporting events. But, today I would like to suggest that everyone read Bob Clark's column in the sports section.

It's a subject that has been close to my heart down through the years and I believe Bob does an excellent job on the subject. There's certainly room for everyone in our public schools, at least north of the Mason-Dixon Line, and one group should never find the going any tougher than the other—scholastically speaking.

Minisink Hill Firm Erecting Plant For Waste Treatment

Operation May Get Underway January 1

COATES BOARD and Carton Co., Inc., is erecting a new waste treatment plant adjoining its Minisink Hill mill.

Actually, the plant is a large rectangular tank, measuring 90 feet long, 25 feet wide and 25 feet high. It is supported every three feet by a vertical column resting on a reinforced concrete foundation 10 feet deep.

Capacity of the new plant, which will replace a smaller one destroyed in the 1955 flood, will be 2,500 gallons per minute, according to Robert L. Harmer, plant engineer. This is far in excess of the paper mill's normal waste of 800 to 1,000 gallons, he said.

It is expected to be placed in operation by Jan. 1, 1957, after final inspection and approval by the State Department of Health. Installation of the waste treatment plant is required by the state to prevent contaminated water from entering Brodheads Creek.

Coates purchased the tank from Ford Motor Co., which had used it less than two years at a paper mill at Dearborn, Mich. When the mill was abandoned, the waste plant was purchased by Coates, dismantled and shipped here on six railroad gondolas. Coates sent its master mechanic, Leonard Houloose, to Dearborn to supervise the dismantling and loading.

A Newton Bugbee, Catawauque, has the contract to install the plant. The entire installation will cost in the neighborhood of $75,000, Harmer said.

A "penthouse" atop the main tank will be used as a chemical treatment and storage room.

Chemicals from smaller tanks are fed into the main tank in proportion to the amount of waste that goes into it. The water is clarified in the tank, piped back into storage or released into the creek and the solids pumped into a processing tank and reclaimed, Harmer explained.

NEWFOUNDLAND — Japanese Rotarians who are members of the Osaka Rotary Club will receive a recorded message from the Rotary Club of Newfoundland in the near future. The recording session was completed this week at the dinner meeting of the local unit held at Green's Restaurant.

Guests

Guests of the club at the meeting at which Dr. Frank Urdel presided were Jack Davis and Vincent April, both of the Mount Pocono Rotary Club.

Marvin Rees, LeAnna, will have charge of next Monday night's program.

Republican State Committeeman Differs With Published Accounts Of Achterman Address

GERALD A. SNYDER, Republican state committeeman, told regional GOP county committee members Tuesday night at Effort that he differs with published accounts of the speech made by a Democratic party leader the previous night.

Snyder referred to the address given by Leo A. Achterman, veteran Democratic spokesman, at a Stroud Township rally Monday night.

Snyder charged Achterman "not only with slanting his account of the events leading to the introduction of tax legislation for the relief of Monroe County from the August, 1955 flood, but also with crude politics."

Snyder declared Achterman "gave the present Democratic assemblyman full and singular credit for the introduction of these tax bills, the purpose of which was to finance the reconstruction of the flood damage of the August, 1955 flood in Monroe County and elsewhere."

In an account of the meeting published in The Daily Record, it was noted by Snyder, Achterman was quoted as praising Rep. Van D. Yetter's "foresight" in introducing and "fighting" for state legislation to finance debris removal, stream clearance and the reconstruction of small bridges.

Further, said Snyder, Achterman had reported that he "immediately after the flood he (Yetter) prepared and introduced into the Legislature in Harrisburg bills to raise the money to replace the destroyed bridges and highways."

In disputing the accuracy and sincerity of this statement, Snyder declared "it does not serve due credit to his (Yetter's) fellow House and Senate members, both Republicans and Democrats alike, who rallied to the call of their people under such an emergency as we all so painfully recall."

The Republican committeeman recalled that "shortly after the flood there was a conference called by a group of 20 or so members of both houses, Republicans and Democrats, who met in Harrisburg to raise the money needed for reconstruction."

"Yetter was only one of this group and by experience and seniority, a small voice, indeed. This group agreed, in a non-partisan procedure, regardless of party or person, to start the wheels rolling on this legislation."

"As we all know," Snyder added, "tax bills are introduced in the House and by virtue of the fact that Monroe County was the worst hit county in the state, the honor of his (Yetter's) name was tacked on to House bills 1741-42-43-44-45, etc. of Act 1-36 along with two other representatives, one of whom was a Republican."

"This legislation was passed by the House and Senate almost unanimously. There was no fighting, there was no hickering as Mr. Achterman would lead us to believe."

"There was no politics; there was no singular credit for the idea of this legislation; nor has there been any of this original 20 or so group so politically or morally weak to attempt to grab singular credit for these sincere bills."

In conclusion, Snyder told the party workers, "what Mr. Achterman failed to point out is that on the night that legislation was put up for a vote in the House of Representatives our present Democratic representative from Monroe County was not even present to vote on these emergency measures (as reported by INS)."

Cartwright Speaks To Kiwanians

MAGNITUDE of the task facing the forces trying to support civilization was described by Dr. John S. Cartwright, superintendent of Allentown schools, at an inter-club meeting sponsored by the Stroudsburg Kiwanis Club at the Penn Stroud Hotel last night.

Kiwanians from 11 clubs in Pennsylvania, New Jersey and New York were present.

Dr. Cartwright, a former superintendent of Stroudsburg schools, introduced his subject with the observation that three revolutions, silent but dramatic, are taking place throughout the world today. One is in the home and family, another in the social world, international in scope, and the third in technology and science.

Pattern

He showed the pattern of change in the home, noting that people are on the move in ever-increasing numbers. This creates problems for schools, churches and other community and social agencies, Dr. Cartwright declared.

People of the world are in revolt, he said in speaking of the social revolution. He went on to explain that 700,000,000 people have been freed of some type of bondage throughout the world in the last 10 years. We are looking for new world markets, Dr. Cartwright said, and can sell our goods to these people if we win their confidence and faith and train them in the American way of life.

The answer cannot be found in force; our efforts must be lifted to a spiritual and intellectual plane, the speaker stressed.

More scientific and technological changes have occurred in the last 50 years than in the previous 500 years, and more will come in the next 25 years than in the last 550, Dr. Cartwright said in turning to the third revolution.

He cited examples to show how standards of progress and perfection are changing continuously and told of the terrific impact the scientific revolution is having on civilization.

Magnitude of the problem facing education, the church and home, as well as social agencies, is so great we don't recognize how much people are demanding in life, the speaker said.

Peoples of other countries are recognizing that the business of education is important, he added, and said education is our key to the democratic way of life, our

Shanley Explains Politics Not Involved In Armory Job

NATIONAL GUARD ARMORY board chairman Maj. Gerald E. Shanley Jr., last night took exception to a possible erroneous interpretation to one paragraph in yesterday's story concerning work at the Armory.

Contractors went to work to put the Armory in East Stroudsburg back in use early this week. Their work is expected to be finished on or before Jan. 16, 1957.

The paragraph to which Maj. Shanley referred was the following: "Shanley said he had received further notice that the contracts had been processed from the office of Rep. Francis E. Walter in Washington. Shanley had earlier asked Walter's office expedite the matter. The local board chairman said the reply from Walter's office arrived on the same day work began on reconstruction."

Maj. Shanley said that the wording of the paragraph might cause an unfortunate political interpretation in the minds of some readers. This was not the intent of his own comments and any such implication would be due to the construction given the comments by the writer of the article. The story was written by Daily Record reporter Leonard Randolph.

Work on the Armory, meanwhile, was halted yesterday to allow time for a full-scale conference between contractors and officials. That conference will be held this morning at 10:45 a. m. in the Armory building, Maj. Shanley said.

The Armory was severely hit by flood waters August 18-19 in 1955. It has been unfit for use since then. In the interim Monroe County's National Guard organization (now there are two companies) has been forced to use temporary quarters.

second line of defense. If we want to use manpower to the fullest, the speaker said, we must educate and train to the fullest.

He closed by quoting Raymond Fosdick: "We have one foot in a civilization that is dying and the other in a civilization that is struggling to be born."

Dr. Cartwright added: "The gap between what we know and what we need to know becomes wider and deeper. We (education and other instruments for advancement of civilization) need your help, but most of all your understanding of the task that confronts us."

Besides members of the Stroudsburg club, Kiwanians were in attendance from Allentown, Bangor, Easton and Scranton, Pa.; Clinton, Franklin, Hackettstown, Newton and Washington, N. J., and Port Jervis, N. Y.

William P. Wells presided and C. W. Dupes was program chairman. Singing was led by Dr. Earl Will-

Candidates Agree To Lead Parade

A MAIN theme of this year's Halloween Parade — if Jaycees have their wish — will be "Get Out And Vote."

And to make their point more powerful, the local young man's group has a bi-partisan punch: The two grand marshals for the Oct. 31 night parade will be the opposing party candidates for Monroe County assemblyman.

Peter Wyckoff, parade arrangements chairman, told The Daily Record last night that Rep. Van D. Yetter and his GOP opponent, Hanford Cleveland, have agreed to lead the parade.

In Front

Both Yetter and Cleveland will be seen at the front of the parade, Wyckoff said. The Jaycees have urged other local organizations to take part in the festivities with floats and have also suggested that these groups concentrate on the "Get Out The Vote" theme.

Prizes given for best floats, costumes and marching units will total more than $300, the chairman said. Prizes are being donated by merchants in Stroudsburg and East Stroudsburg at whose request the Jaycees took over sponsorship of this year's parade.

All persons or organizations wishing to enter floats in the parade are asked to contact Peter Wyckoff at Stroudsburg 400 during the day.

Suffocation, Rotting More Harmful To Mums During Winter Months Than Cold Weather

By George Abraham

WINTERING MUMS: What's the best way to bring mums thru the winter? Does it pay to mulch garden mums? These are two questions we commonly receive this time of the year. It's been our experience that garden mums come through the winter as well, if not better, with no mulch at all. Although Chrysanthemums are not altogether hardy, it's not the cold that kills so many, but rather excessive water around the roots. This causes the plants to suffocate or rot out. Any mulch material such as leaves, straw, lawn clippings, manure, etc., should not be used as a winter covering for mums because the plants are readily smothered by such covers.

If your soil is well-drained, your best bet is to leave the plants without a winter mulch. Here's what you can do if the soil is heavy and poorly drained: lift the plants with the soil clinging to the roots, then place them under the eaves of a building or in the drier side of a building, the floor of a barn or shed, or inside a cold-frame, where they can remain until spring.

Many of our friends have good luck digging their clumps up and placing them on top of the ground with no supplementary protection. This works fine in soils that are heavy and apt to have water standing. The more soil you can leave on, the better. Just in case you get a lot of winter rains, it may be a good idea to mulch "lifted" plant with evergreen boughs to keep water from washing the soil away from roots. The important thing is to avoid excessive water around mum plants. Also, do not allow the clumps to go dry completely as this may kill the plants. A sprinkling or two with a watering can now and then will carry the plants thru until spring when you can divide the clumps or make new cuttings. Do not remove the tops from your plants until fully ripened, or not before the following spring. In cold regions where lots of snow is expected, the dead tops catch falling leaves and snow and serve as a natural mulch. Cut the plants back in spring and then divide the clumps. We'll tell you more about this next spring.

Question Box

F. R. of Stroudsburg: "For a number of years I have left the foliage on my peony bushes thru the winter, as I read that this was best. Now I've read that the foliage should be cut if you want the plants to do best. What should be done to the peony foliage?"

In the fall after the frost has killed the foliage all stems should be cut off close to the ground and burned. This helps get rid of many diseases which are apt to winter over in the dead leaves. It's a good idea to rake up all leaves and debris around the peony clumps and burn these also. Do not put such material on the compost pile. A mistake among some gardeners is to cut the peony foliage back after blooming. This practice weakens the plants. Peony foliage should be left on as long as possible in Autumn, then removed after the first black frost. Incidentally, peonies are among the hardest of perennials, and there's no need to mulch them with straw, etc., except for plants set out the first year to prevent heaving from the ground.

C. M. of Canadensis: "I've been very successful this year in that I have started 18 roses from cuttings. Now I'm told that these roses will grow wild as they have not been grafted. Is all my work for nothing? If they are any good, what care should they get for winter?"

Your roses will be exactly like the parent plants and will not be wild. If they are under glass jars now leave them there until spring and then remove the jars. See that the soil is dampened now and then in the fall. That's all the care they can be set in a permanent spot and be sure they get plenty of water. A mulch of sawdust or peatmoss will help them get started in the outdoor world. Don't feed them until summer.

BAREFOOT IN AGONY—There was rejoicing among the rank and file this week when East Stroudsburg Tri-Mi-Yers found out that president Carole Hilyard had never been "initiated." So, said they, wasn't it about time she should? Miss Hilyard took a deep breath, adopted a brave smile and an attitude of benign martyrdom. Last night, the deed was done. When the photographer took this graphic illustration of the things you have to go through to be a president (and also wash your feet twice within a few hours) Miss Hilyard obliged with a grimace of unmistakable distaste for the mass of goo underfoot. The slippery substance she was walking on included wet, cold, cooked macaroni (elbow style); cool coffee grounds and a few olives. You think this is easy? Try it some time. With or without pimiento. A PHILADELPHIA driver was fined $25 and costs by a local Justice of the Peace this week after he passed a stopped school bus on Route 611.

Mrs. Ruth Miller, the Justice of the Peace, identified the motorist as Harold Krantz, Philadelphia.

Mrs. Miller said that Krantz paid a $25 fine and $5 cost by check and by mail. The violation occurred on Oct. 16, she said, on the three-lane highway in Stroud Township. Mrs. Miller said Krantz passed a school bus operated by William D. Johnson when the bus was stopped on the highway. State law now prohibits passing halted school buses from either direction. Violators are subject to fines ranging from $25 to $50 on the first offense. Fines for the second offense may range, by law, from $50 to $100, Mrs. Miller said.

Pyle Lists Band Steps For Gap PTA

Delaware Water Gap — The steps by which a child is prepared for the band in Stroud Union School district were outlined by John Pyle, director of music, at the meeting of the Water Gap Parent-Teachers Association on Monday night.

First instrumental instruction is given in the fifth grade where interested children are taught to read music and finger the notes in a fluteophone band. During the second semester individual tests are given each player in preparation for individual instrumental instruction which is begun in the sixth grade.

The size of the child and shape of his mouth determines largely the instrument he will use. Parents are advised to rent the instrument for three months to give the child a chance to prove his interest and aptitude. Pyle gives individual instructions with about 127 lessons each week in addition to the group work.

In junior high school the students become members of a band, and advance to the senior band, and in some cases to the 30-piece advanced band ensemble. About five percent of the students take up music as a profession, Pyle reported.

Ralph S. Harrison, music instructor at Clearview and Water Gap, outlined the work in those schools, which is predominately singing with singing games and dancing.

Since the State Council of Civil Defense has advocated that school houses be utilized as shelters in case of mass evacuation, Mrs. Alys Morton will serve as chairman of a committee to prepare volunteers for specific tasks. Mrs. Ben Geshensky, Mrs. Harry Andrew and Mrs. Helen Kulp will assist in lining up the volunteers.

Mrs. Henry Kulp presided at the meeting and with Mrs. Stanley Siroth and Mrs. John Chamberlain reported on the recent School of Instruction. Mrs. John Sutton and Mrs. William Widdoss served Halloween refreshments.

Local Rebekahs Installation

Rachel Brodhead Rebekah Lodge will have installation of officers at their meeting Friday night at 8 at the Fort Penn Lodge Hall. Mrs. Ethel Rinker, district deputy president of the Rebekah lodges of Monroe County and her staff from Sciota, will preside at the installation.

A covered dish supper will follow the meeting.

Just Between Us

—By Bobby Westbrook

At certain times of the year, the typewriter can take the bit in its teeth and write a story all by itself like a horse hitting the familiar homestretch to the barn. Right now the key word is Halloween, and anybody in doubt about what our young people can do to stay out of mischief can take a look at the social calendar where there are two Halloween parties for tonight, three for tomorrow night and seven for Saturday night. These are the public parties, mind you.

Actually, I don't think today's young people are any more destructive than yesterday's, and seldom hit the heights of day before yesterday when tipping over outhouses was considered the heights of humor. In my day, certain of today's very respectable business men worked all night getting a cow up in the belfry at the high school on the hill, and the Kerr's porch chairs all ways ended up on the top of the flagpole.

However, having reached the age when mischief that causes needless work or costs money is anything but funny, I'm all for community parties and useful tricks or treats like collecting for the UN Children's Fund. Anything that will keep the soap off my car windows and the scratches off the windows.

But speaking of Halloween decorations, the Federation of Clubs had some clever ones Jayne Hoffman had made. By the speaker's platform were two pumpkins, one holding an arrangement of Fall flowers, the other a candle shining through the initials "MC FWC," which must have been a lot harder to carve than a grin.

The plight of the mentally ill is nothing to grin about, either. However Dr. Oliver had one story you might enjoy. Seems a neurotic is one who builds a dream castle, a psychotic is one who lives in it, and a psychiatrist is the one who collects the rent.

"Unless they have unlimited funds for care in private institutions, heaven help the adult in Monroe County who develops mental illness," thus sharply was the problem of Mental Health brought home to the members of the Monroe County Federation of Women's Clubs at their annual Fall conference at the Penn-Stroud Hotel on Tuesday night.

The comment came from the audience during the discussion which followed a talk by Robert Oliver, central area director of Pennsylvania Mental Health, Inc., given after a dinner attended by 33 representatives of the six member clubs of the federation.

Biggest Health Problem Mental illness is our largest national health problem, Oliver said, with one billion in tax money going for the care of mentally ill in hospitals, where they occupy half of all hospital beds. It is an increasing problem that will require a big push in research and treatment before it will get better.

Basically, he said, mental illness falls into two main categories, psychosis, which is acute and chronic and requires hospital care; and neurosis, which while it may not require hospital care may incapacitate a person for life.

In Pennsylvania, there are 50,000 persons in 17 hospitals and four institutions for retarded and mentally defective. In great piles of brick and stone they are kept apart from their fellows, followed by the traditional even of shame, stigma and hopelessness, he said. Yet mental illness is like any other illness, he said, and the recognition of this fact has been slowly changing concepts of treatment. The visit of the Governor and his staff to mental hospitals in the state disclosed conditions of overcrowding and under staffed institutions which resulted in pushing through an increase in funds.

While $5.50 has been estimated as the minimum at which care and treatment can be adequate, mental patients in Pennsylvania were averaging only $2.98 a day. That average has now been raised to $3.42 a day.

Brains Before strikes "Treatment is even more important than buildings," he said, and quoted "Available money should be used to buy brains not bricks." Pennsylvania has now entered the race to attract trained psychiatrists and personnel.

Another forward step in Pennsylvania has been the removal of mental hospitals from political control and setting up a qualified Commissioner of Mental Health to direct the program.

These advances, he said, came because citizens realized the need and pushed for changes by letters, telegrams and conference with legislators.

The Pennsylvania Mental Health Inc., is attempting to set up a five-county Mental Health committee to study needs for special services in these counties, including Monroe. Dr. Oliver has been meeting with persons interested with a view to forming a local Mental Health Committee, whose work would not be fund-raising but preventive education, and a study of how services could be made available in the county, perhaps through the hospital, perhaps

THE Wyckoff SHOPPER

During the days when Gloria Swanson was the moving screen's femme fatale, the perfume atomizer was probably at its height of popularity. It was glamorous... and because it was, it was also synonymous with sin. Vampires of the screen surrounded themselves with them... and other women, who were tired of their humdrum lives and dreamed of far away places and far away things, hastened to buy the 50c and 1.00 types sold by variety stores.

The rage for the atomizer continued unabated for quite a period. Then it suddenly died. For awhile, in the average household at least, there were only neatly stashed bottles of fragrance on dressing tables. When you did see an atomizer it looked funny somehow... outdated and a bit grotesque.

Later, plastic manufacturers expanded their ever-widening horizons by putting them back onto the market again in a "different" version. There were flowers carved in the bottom... or objects sealed beneath the clear lucite base. Women decided once again a dressing table needed a few of these perfume purveyors to look truly lovely. And so, it's no surprise to see them returning with greater beauty and in better taste than ever before, to the shelves of cosmetic departments. As a matter of fact, our store is right now displaying a new shipment of plastics, cracked glass, and a variety of blown glass creations, the latter imported from Germany. They are just ornate enough to look magnificent both in use and under the Christmas tree, and they are priced to fit comfortably into the Christmas budget, so they should be tremendously popular for holiday giving.

One type of handblown German glass is almost milk white in appearance and the atomizers are delightful. Probably my favorite is a slender, gently curved style only four inches high or so, with a graceful band of holly berries at the base. It is not as elaborate as the plain white ball that has ivory leaves traced in gold and costs 10.00, or the 12.50 number with a large pearl at the top and a floral design in delicate colors, but it has a wealth of charm that would make it a winning gift for someone upon whom you spend in the neighborhood of 3.00.

Another type of handblown glass is transparent, and has a deep smoke coloring. The manufacturer has set it off elegantly with vertical gold lines and gold metal trim. These are particularly inexpensive when one considers how truly rich looking they are... 3.50 and 5.00 being the price range.

Our cosmetic department is also introducing a new array of La-Crom manicure sets and implement cases. The manicure sets include nail polish remover, cuticle remover, polish and matching lip-stick, and have plastic cases. They are priced at 5.00 and 10.00. The implement cases contain only the actual "tools" of glamorizing—such as tweezers, nail file, clippers, cuticle equipment and large clippers for the toe nails. These are encased in delicate blue, deep red, or white leather with zipper and, according to how complete they are, are priced from 5.00 to 12.50. While, for the man, there's a stunning brown leather case at 15.00.

For those who have a Secret Pal or Office Buddy on the list of those slated to receive 1.00 or 2.00 gifts, we have some of the merriest Christmas soaps imaginable. The 1.00 box contains two fat cakes, with Christmas symbols in color; the 2.00 box holds four cakes—either oval in shape, with a decoration of pine cone, or rectangular in shape with four assorted designs: a cheery Santa, a big red candle, a cluster of bells, and a spray of pine cones. With any of these in the bathroom it won't be any trouble at all to coax the kiddies into bathing.

THE BIG CRY across the nation these days is "something got to be done about over-emphasis of sports." On the college level, educators (more times than not the main dissenters) and athletic heads have blended together pros and cons on the exploitation of athletes, especially football players.

While there has been some advancement toward a happy median, mainly through the efforts of the National Collegiate Athletic Association, the gentlemen running the educational plants, still feel slighted toward the actual de-emphasizing of athletics in their respective schools.

But that's another story. Now we hear from different corners of Pennsylvania that a drive is on to de-emphasize schoolboy athletics in the state.

This rumor or report, whatever you care to call it, hits us where it hurts most. We've had our hands in schoolboy sports for quite a spell and we have reported games where 31 persons were present to a 20,000 attendance figure.

And for our money the over-emphasis at the 31 turnout was no different than the 20,000 fanfare. The only thing which could be construed more outstanding was the noise raised by the 20,000 assemblage.

According to Webster's dictionary, emphasis means to "stress fully, or a concerted effort to bring out a subject."

If there is over-emphasis on sports in schools in Pennsylvania then the PIAA, the governing body of scholastic athletics in the state, is just as much to blame as each institution. For no one, and we'd like to emphasize this, not de-emphasize, puts on a bigger spectacle—sports-wise—than the PIAA's own state-wide basketball tournament.

Taking football for an example, Webster's words are the answer to a finished product. Football, by far, is the roughest and most demanding sport of all. For our taste, you get yourself something when a boy winds up his grid indoctrination.

We imagine the persons leading the drive to cut down on the "fanfare" of football spectacles see too much stressing of winning and not enough effort on character molding, discipline and other channels which may lead to a good citizen. Let me say that any one who doesn't go out to win, whether it be marbles, quoits or even seek a position, has let himself and others down. Using the words of an educator, "This country wasn't built on defeatists or those who had thoughts of giving ground one."

Another man, a noted general, once told this writer that of all the soldiers under his command, "athletes were by far the best." He noted, that good discipline was one of their main fortes. And we don't have to tell anyone that these athletes learned this fine quality on the battle field of sports competition.

In character molding, an athlete doesn't have to take a back seat to anyone. We have been informed by guardians of the law that the police dockets are practically empty of boys or men who have participated in sports.

We have no quarrels with educators or their systems. As it is in their eyes, "learning" should come first. But there is room for competitive sports with fanfare, just like there is room for the dramatic club, band, choral groups, newspapers.

When schools and teams start losing the desire to compete cleanly and constructively for laurels in any extra-curricular phase, then look out troubles. There will be a sparkplug missing. And for the life of us, we have never heard a motor run smoothly with one rejecter. Something was missing.

ESSTC Girls Defeat Gettysburg In Field Hockey, 4-2

Abrams, Bucher Handle Scoring

GETTYSBURG—East Stroudsburg State Teachers College continued its winning ways in field hockey yesterday with a convincing 4-2 decision over Gettysburg's lassies, here on the latter's home field.

The win was third for the Warriors, as compared to two deadlocks and no defeats.

Both rivals notched one goal in the first half, but the visiting Warriors turned the tide with a strong showing during the second half.

Scoring

Helen Abrams and Mary Ann Bucher handled the scoring task for ESSTC, the former picking up a goal in each half, while the latter tallied twice during the second half.

Judy Schaub scored in the first half for Gettysburg and Lou Moyer scored for the home team's second goal in the second half.

The Warriors are scheduled to enter the inter-collegiate tournament at Swarthmore on Saturday.

Lehigh Cage Hopes Brighter

BETHLEHEM, Oct. 24—Prospects for an improved basketball season appear bright with the return of four starters from last year's Lehigh University quintet. The Brown and White will open its 18-game campaign Dec. 1 against Albright College in Reading.

The only newcomer on the Engineers' schedule will be Dickinson College. The single game, the first between the two rivals since 1949, will be played Feb. 6 here. Last year's sophomore and junior dominated team will remain intact with the exception of Eugene Siegel who graduated last June. Back again will be: captain-elect Dave Walker, 5-11 senior guard, Plainfield, N.J.; Bill LeClere, 6-0 senior guard, Pittsburgh; Tom Healy, 6-1 junior forward, Saratoga Springs, N.Y.; and Dan Nolan, 6-1 junior forward, Mechanicville, N.Y.

Leading Candidate

The leading candidate for the center spot vacated when Siegel graduated last June is sophomore Arnis Balgavis, a 6-5 prospect with great jumping power and a good assortment of shots. Balgavis now resides with his family in Bethlehem. He spent much of his early life in a concentration camp in Latvia.

Other top sophomore prospects include: Adolf Hofmann, 6-3 forward, Hawthorne, N.Y.; Joe Wenzel, 6-1 forward, Hastings-on-Hudson, N.Y.; Robert Rogan, 6-2 guard, Manhasset, N.Y.; and Jim Patton, 6-0 guard, Red Bank, N.J.

Dick Newkirk, 5-10 junior guard, Towson, Md., a reserve on last year's varsity, also is back. Bill Scarlett, a junior, Abington, is a newcomer conceded a good chance to make the varsity.

Nolan and Wenzel will not be available for basketball practice until the close of the football season. Newkirk is a varsity soccer player and also will be an absentee until midway in November.

Healy and Siegel ended in a tie for scoring honors last year with 232 points apiece. Walker ended with 149; LeClere with 146 and Nolan with 141.

Delaware Regains Edge

NEWARK, Del. Oct. 25—The University of Delaware football team used a 14-6 victory over New Hampshire on Saturday to regain an edge in the season's cumulative statistics over opponents faced to date.

By dominating the host Wildcats through most of the game, the battling Blue Hens pushed ahead of all five foes encountered this fall in first downs, rushing, passing, punting, and, most important, scoring, after waging an even battle through the first four games of the fall.

Figures

Individual figures on the Hens' past performances list Larry Catuzzi, Delaware's sterling field general from Carlstadt, N. J., in undisputed first place in passing with 33 completions for 443 yards and six touchdowns. Ben Klinger, awarded a berth on the E.C.A.C.'s All-East Team of the week this week, wins the nomination as Delaware's top pass receiver with 14 catches for 203 yards and two touchdowns. In punting, Larry Catuzzi's 18

Durocher To Confer On Possibility Of Leading Tribe

Karsity 'E' Meets Today

MARSHALLS CREEK—Reg Nauman, president of the Varsity "E" Club, revealed this week that his organization will hold its most important meeting in history here at Bill Altier's today.

The session is set for 7:30 p.m.

Nauman is hopeful of having every club member in attendance at today's gathering.

Gettysburg Faces Tough Grid Rival

GETTYSBURG, Oct. 24—Gettysburg's football team will receive one of its most severe tests of the season Saturday when it meets unbeaten Lafayette at Easton, in Lafayette's annual Founder's Day game. The Leopards have recorded successive victories over Muhlenberg, Temple, Delaware, Albright and Bucknell, and will go into the game as solid favorites over a Gettysburg team that lost to Lehigh and Bucknell, but has scored decisive victories against Albright, Western Maryland and Muhlenberg.

The Bullets are far behind in the series that started in 1894. Lafayette has won 12 times while Gettysburg has won only three. Gettysburg used a last quarter field goal to defeat the Leopards, 15-14 last year in the Bullets' Homecoming game. Jim Soltesz, who has graduated, kicked the winning field goal after he had missed two earlier extra point attempts. Lafayette won the 1954 game played at Easton by a 20-6 score after the Bullets had jumped off to an early 6-0 lead. The last two games between the schools were played in the rain.

Ground Battle

Saturday's contest figures to be a rugged ground battle as both teams have featured good running attacks in recent games. Spearheaded by quarterback Joe Bozik, halfback Gordon Brown, Jack Stotter and Jim Hourihan, and fullback Al Stephens, the split-T Leopards have run almost at will against all their opponents this season. The Bullets, off to a slow start in early games against Lehigh and Bucknell, seem to have found themselves in recent battles and, like Lafayette, have done most of the damage overland. Operating from their Straight-T and Drive Series, the Bullets have featured a fast-moving attack that has featured the running of junior fullback Frank Capitani, and a fleet of speedy halfbacks including seniors Earl Yost and Dave Lichtenfeld, junior Don Hailey and sophomores Jim Flood and George Greiner.

boots for an average of 37.0 yards place him as the Hens' best, while center Jerry Wells leads the field in pass interceptions with three. Four Delaware players are credited with two kickoff return each, but it is halfback Bob Moneymaker with a 25.0 yard average return who leads the pack. Moneymaker, a veteran performer from Seaford, Del., also hails as No. 1 in the punt return department and is the team's top ground-gainer with 332 yards, an average of 4.9 yards a carry.

In individual scoring, end Carmen Ceila of Linwood, Pa., is foremost with 24 points, followed by Klinger with 21 and John Oberg with 12.

Turkey Shoot Held At Dingmans

DINGMANS FERRY—Summer home of U. F. Rickard, on the Child's Park road, was the scene of a Turkey Shoot last Sunday. Cooperatively arranged by a number of residents of the area, the event attracted about 50 neighbors and friends, some coming from points as distant as Honesdale and Elizabeth, N. J.

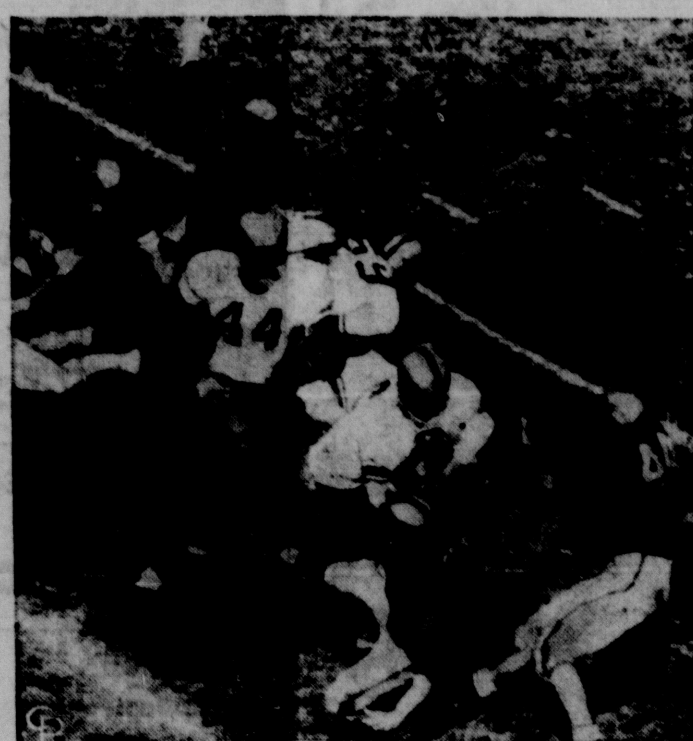

The shooting contest consisted of three main events. In the turkey shoot, participants attempted to hit a turkey at 100 yards distance. The bird was protected by a steel plate, with only its head protruding, and contestants were obliged to do off-hand shooting, using open sights. This event was won by Archie Christian, who carried home the 15-pound prize. Runner-up was Roy Dackerman, with third place going to Clarence Rickard, Jr.

The second event was the "Standing Deer", using a framed, paper target at 100 yards and scoring by points determined by the closeness with which the participants hit the "heart." First prize of a turkey went to Jack Kjekstad, with second and third prizes going to Jack Rickard and Charles Wycoff, respectively.

Third Contest

The third contest used an exceedingly interesting target. It consisted of a plywood "deer" attached to a sloping wire running downhill through a grove of trees. As the "deer" passed through appointed spaces in the grove, contestants attempted to "bag" their buck from a distance of seventy-five yards. Sharpshooter in this event was Dave Hutchison. Rudy Norco placed second, with Jerry Rickard third in line. Again, all winning contestants took home their Thanksgiving dinner bird.

About 35 of the guests present participated in the shooting contests. For those too young or ladylike to handle firearms, there were appropriate games, with prizes of chickens going to high scorers. Of these winners, the first four prizes went to Molly Keenan, Dot Beatty, Jennie Christian and Helen Fuder, in that order.

SYRACUSE's sensational halfback, Jimmy Brown, gets away here on one of his jaunts against Army, leading the once-beaten Syracuse team to a 7-0 win over the Cadets on the home grounds. Brown picked up 125 yards rushing to add to his total which now stands at 496 yards after four games. (International)

AP-Scribe Picks Irish Over Sooners

By WILL GRIMSLEY

NEW YORK, Oct. 24 (AP)—Emotionalism, a throwback to the Thirties when locker room oratory and the Die-for-Dear-Old-Whatchamacallit spirit flowered, has replaced the cold slide rule as the measuring stick in college football games.

Form is disgraced. Upsets are rampant. Don't sell any team short—including three-times-beaten Notre Dame against Oklahoma, winner of 34 straight. Our upsetter of the week: Notre Dame.

Last week we rode with Texas A & M, Columbia and Penn in their upsets, picked 37 of 45 for an average. Season's record: 169-46 (64.78).

Here goes:

Notre Dame 20, Oklahoma 7: The Fighting Irish will have the spirit of Knute Rockne riding with them in this over-the-head effort, Paul Hornung, one of the nation's finest backs, has a day of glory.

Michigan State 26, Illinois 6: Ordinarily this might be a good spot for a surprise, but the Spartans' over-all strength is too overwhelming.

Georgia Tech 20, Tulane 7: The Greenies are the season's surprise but they left something on the field in the Ole Miss upset.

Baylor 13, Texas A & M 0: Baylor, idle last week, had extra time to prepare, should win defensive battle from Aggies who went all out against TCU.

Stanford 27, Southern California 14: The Indians' air attack counter-balances Jon Arnett, playing his last game.

Tennessee 35, Maryland 0: A romp for the Volunteers, who look like one of Gen. Neyland's old powerhouses.

West Virginia 13, Penn State 7: The Mountaineers' being the P. Staters rudely to enter after the big upset over Ohio State.

Michigan 14, Minnesota 7: The Wolverines keep the Little Brown Jug.

Arkansas 14, Mississippi 6: Ole Miss still groggy from the loss to Tulane.

UCLA 20, Oregon State 12: Red Sanders spoils Oregon State's bid for the Rose Bowl.

Colgate 14, Yale 7: The Red Raiders live up to their reputation as Ivy League spoilers.

103 Baylor Athletes Hit By Mass Food Poisoning

WACO, Tex., Oct. 24 (AP)—A total of 103 Baylor University athletes, including almost all members of the Bears' football squad, were treated today for what Coach Sam Boyd said was food poisoning caused by roast beef.

The mass illness forced cancellation of the grid team's final body-contact workout in preparation for its crucial Southwest Conference game here Saturday against A&M.

The game has national importance as A&M is ranked seventh in the country in the current Associated Press poll and Baylor is rated eighth. Boyd said that the only athletes who did not become ill after last night's meal in the dining room of the athletes' dormitory were 12 students who ate at their homes.

Dr. Horace Trippett, the team physician, said that he believed all the stricken athletes would be back in full physical strength by game time Saturday.

Forty-nine of the athletes were football players. The others were basketball and track men.

Cardinals Negotiating For Sale Of Rochester Club

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 24 (AP)—The St. Louis Cardinals, who have halted farm club operations at Fresno, Calif., and Allentown, Pa., are now negotiating for the sale of their Rochester club in the International League.

"Two specific groups have approached us but negotiations are in the preliminary stages," said Vaughan (Bing) Devine, assistant to General Manager Frank Lane. Devine refused to identify the prospective purchasers.

"It is too early to say what we will do," Devine said.

Spokesman

A Cardinal spokesman said any sale would include physical property, including the Rochester Stadium, as well as the franchise.

Earlier today the Rochester Times-Union, in a story by sports writer Al Weber, said the Cardinals were expected to terminate their farm club operation at Rochester within the next few weeks.

The Cardinals have operated the Rochester Red Wings as a farm club in the International League since 1928.

Feelers

The Times-Union said two separate local groups have put out purchase feelers to August Busch, owner of the Cardinals and his baseball administrator, Frank Lane.

A Cardinal spokesman said today that there might be something "definite" about the reported termination next week upon Lane's return from Cuba where he is watching winter league baseball play.

Bardstown Sets Pace

CAMDEN, N. J., Oct. 24 (AP)—Calumet Farm's classy 4-year-old gelding, Bardstown, stepped to the front as a field of seven star thoroughbreds straightened into the home stretch and went on to win the $81,400 Trenton Handicap by a neck over Summer Tan at Garden State Park today.

Bardstown stepped the 1 1/4 miles in 2:01.4 and paid $6.40, $3.60 and $2.30.

Summer Tan, fourth most of the way, paid $3.60 and $2.40 as the place horse, while Find wound up third, paying $3.80.

By Whitney Martin

NEW YORK, Oct. 24 (AP)—Good ideas come from the strangest sources.

Not meaning that an idea coming from a wife is unique. The little women who rule the world are full of ideas, and their supposed lords and masters had better listen, or else.

But when the suggestion comes from a wife and concerns football, it is a little unusual, although George Blackburn will admit it wasn't exactly on the silly order, such as: "Why do they call it a naked reverse when the man has all his clothes on?"

Blackburn is a bouncy, affable fellow with a sense of humor, something it is nice to have when your team loses four of its first five games, as his University of Cincinnati team has done.

Blackburn, who doesn't bat an eye when he is introduced around Cincinnati as "Ewell Blackwell," was telling the football writers here of a little change in his procedure for the game with Navy last week.

Advice

"We hadn't been doing well," he said, "and my wife said, 'Blackie, you've got to make a change. Why don't you go up in the press box and use the telephone to the bench?'"

"Well, a coach on the bench has the poorest seat in the house. You can't see the spacing of the players, the angling, the covering. You just don't know what's going on when you're on the field."

"When I coached under Earl Blaik I was in the press box and had a good view, so I decided to try my wife's idea, and also followed her suggestion to try the experiment on the road, to avoid possible alumni criticism."

How well the experiment worked is indicated by the fact that Navy had to go all out to win, 13-7. From his press box perch Blackburn noticed that Navy's quarterback would send out his flanker and then watch the reaction of the Cincinnati defense before calling his play accordingly.

"They hurt us the first half," he said, "but in the second half we'd line up our defense and call the coverage, but we wouldn't show it immediately. That upset the Navy offense quite a lot."

Blackburn, who has been coaching high school and college football for 20 years and has been at Cincinnati three years, also gave an inadvertent tribute to the power of the press.

Quote

A Washington newspaper had quoted Navy coach Eddie Erdelatz to the effect that his fullback had carried the ball on 20 plays out of 49 in an earlier game, and that his team would have to balance its attack by going outside more.

"An alumnus clipped the story and sent it to me, so we were ready for the outside stuff," Blackburn said.

The Cincinnati coach had good words for Navy, however. He said the Middies have a good team. Well conditioned with sharp reflexes and capable of giving any team trouble.

He believes Navy hasn't jelled yet; that Erdelatz has not settled on his lineup. "It is much like the 1954 team," he explained. The 1954 team failed to click until George Welsh was settled at quarterback.

He gave a pat on the back to one of his own players, also. He said that his center, Gus Del Rosas, is as good as any center in the Midwest. He was picked as the outstanding lineman in the Navy game.

Getting back to press box coaching, Blackburn said he was going to try it against Marquette. The idea does make sense.

Dodgers Show Power

SENDAI, Japan, Oct. 24 (AP)—The Brooklyn Dodgers finally gave Japanese pitchers a sample of their hitting power today by smothering the Kanto All-Stars 8-0 behind the five-hit pitching of Fred Kipp and Ralph Branca. It was the biggest Dodger batting show since the second game of the World Series.

A crowd of 30,000 fans watched in a drizzle while the Brooks won their second straight shutout for a 3-2 record in their 20-game barnstorming tour.

Monroe County On Line Today

MONROE COUNTY Bowling League will resume action today at Harmon's Recreation, starting at 9:15 p.m. The schedule:

Branca 10-Year Man

BROOKLYN, N. Y. (AP)—One of the chief reasons for Ralph Branca seeking to return to the majors is the pension rule. He needed three more weeks on a big league roster to be a 10-year man which means he will receive $175 a month when he reaches 50. The right-handed pitcher was signed by the Brooklyn Dodgers with four weeks left in the 1956 season.

West Chester Students Invade Normal Hill Campus

Visitors Splash Paint Over Area

STUDENTS FROM West Chester State Teachers College paid a surprise visit to East Stroudsburg State Teachers College late Tuesday night, at which time the Rams displayed their painting ability.

The visit was part of an un-called-for pre-football game build-up which comes to a head on Friday night when the two arch foes clash on the West Chester gridiron.

The West Chester students splashed paint on the fire tower door of Morse Hall, on the doors at Stroud Hall, on the laundry several and then turned over several urns donated to the school by the class of 1902. A couple of the urns were broken.

ESSTC students planning an invasion of the West Chester campus this week have called off their dogs and have decided to spend their efforts cheering for the Warriors Friday night.

Sixth The Warriors will be searching for their sixth win, as against no defeats, when they oppose the powerful Rams. The Rams have won four of five contests. The list includes favorable nods over such squads as the University of Delaware and Drexel.

ESSTC and West Chester have constructed one of the most fierce rivalries in Pennsylvania football.

Gene Martin, ESSTC mentor, last night revealed that quarterback Jim Oplinger is improving from a knee injury, but Co-captain John Andrews is still a question mark because of the same type of injury.

Andrews is expected to start, but may see only limited service in Friday night's contest.

Following the West Chester fray the Warriors will oppose Cortland Teachers, at Cortland, N. Y., on Saturday, Nov. 3.

Reneged Wins Yankee Handicap

BOSTON, Oct. 24 (AP)—Reneged, a sturdy brown colt passed up by several owners before landing with Woodley Lane Farm, pulled away in the final sixteenth of a mile and then survived a foul claim today for an impressive victory in the $50,000 Yankee Handicap at Suffolk Downs.

Reneged, second choice at 4-1 in the 21st running of the mile and a furlong test for 3-year-olds, fought off a driving stretch bid by Happy Hill Farm's Kingmaker to cross the finish 2 1/2 lengths in front in 1:51.25.

Foul Claim A foul claim by jockey Sammy Boulmetis aboard Kingmaker that Reneged drew out and carried his mount wide at the head of the stretch was disallowed by officials after viewing a film of the race.

Reneged took the lead after a quarter of a mile and held it the rest of the way, although Kingmaker closed to within a head entering the stretch and was virtually even until the final sixteenth pole.

Reneged paid $10.00, $6.40 and $4.40. Kingmaker paid $12.60 and $7.50, while Oh Johnny returned $2.20 to show.

Fitzsimmons Joins Cubs

Last season Fitzsimmons managed the Yankees' Binghamton, N. Y. club to second place in the Eastern League.

Cincinnati Pilot Selected As Number One Manager Of Year In National League Race

By SHELDON SAKOWITZ

NEW YORK, Oct. 24 (AP)—George (Birdie) Tebbetts, who instilled a bit of his own inspirational hustle into the Cincinnati Redlegs, today was named National League Manager-Of-The-Year for 1956.

The aggressive Redlegs' skipper was an overwhelming choice of the 207 members of the Baseball Writers Assn. of America who participated in the annual Associated Press poll. Tebbetts received 160 votes.

The former catcher kept Cincinnati in the thick of National League pennant contention until the next-to-last day of the season. As it was, the Redlegs finished third—two games behind the flag-winning Brooklyn Dodgers.

BOSTON, Oct. 24 (AP)—Dr. Clarence (Pop) Houston, president of the National Collegiate Athletic Assn., said yesterday the NCAA's council will meet in Chicago next month to study a report on infractions.

Third Brother Paces Field

JAMAICA, N. Y., Oct. 24 (AP)—Christopher T. Chenery's Third Brother proved much the best in the first running of the $25,350 Long Island Handicap at Jamaica today.

The 3-year-old son of Princequillo-Hildene, totting 120 pounds, was closed in the moderate time of 2:14 for the mile and five-eighths over a drying out strip that was officially termed muddy.

Margin

Third Brother finished five lengths ahead of Lady Lawrence's Beau Diabie, who was a length and a half to the good of Christiana Stables' Thinking Cap. Strong favorite with the crowd of 19,064, Third Brother returned mutuels of $5.00, $3.50 and $2.50. Beau Diabie paid $5.90 and $3.40 and Thinking Cap was $3.30 to show.

Griffin in mid-June and also just missed winning the pennant, was second in the balloting with 34 votes. Under his patient tutelage, the Braves moved to the front only to stumble in the final days as the Dodgers passed them.

Brooklyn's Walter Alston, last year's NL manager of the year, received six votes for his performance this season. Although the Dodgers eventually won out, his demise in the voting was reflected in his team being a prohibitive favorite in the pre-season evaluation.

Bobby Bragan, Pittsburgh's rookie pilot, drew five votes as his team finished seventh after a whirlwind start. Freddie Hutchinson of St. Louis and Philadelphia's Mayo Smith picked up one vote each. The Cards wound up fourth and the Phils fifth.

Stroud Ladies To Bowl Today

STROUD LADIES League will see action today at the Pocono Bowling Center, Stroudsburg, starting at 6:55 p.m. The schedule:

Alleys one and two—Wycliff-Sears vs. Penn Dell.

Giardello Rated 'Fighter Of Month'

NEW YORK, Oct. 24 (AP)—Joey Giardello, Philadelphia middleweight, is rated "Fighter of the month" by Ring Magazine for his upset knockout of high-ranked Bobby Boyd of Chicago.

Giardello's victory and the retirement of Eduardo Lausse of Argentina after his knockout by Andreea Salpa, a fellow countryman, scrambled the ratings in the 160-pound class.

Boyd, who had been No. 2, dropped to seventh place and Giardello, unranked since he served a jail term for assault, moved into the No. 6 spot. France's Charles Humez moved into the No. 2 position. Spider Welsh of Chicago to fourth and Rory Calhoun of White Plains, N.Y., to fifth.

The heavyweight division still has no champion until the Nov. 30 Chicago meeting of Archie Moore (No. 1) and Floyd Patterson (No. 2). Ingemar Johansson of Sweden now is No. 10 in the class after winning the European title by knocking out Italy's Franco Cavicchi.

Among the welterweights, Isaac Logart of Cuba dropped from third to fourth after his defeat by Mexico's Gaspar Ortega. Art Aragon of Los Angeles replaced Logart.

Tony Anthony of New York is fifth in the light heavy division and Willie Beamanoff of Germany, advances to sixth position. Four of the 10 ranked light heavies are Germans.

The New York Yankees drew 1,491,844 paying fans during the 1956 home season. On the road the American League champions attracted 1,713,912.

Columbia Quarterback Named Back Of Week In AP Poll

By The Associated Press

IN FOOTBALL, EVEN a one-man team can't gain much recognition while he's playing for a loser. But when he engineers a major upset work. That's what Columbia's Claude Benham did last Saturday and as a result he was selected today as The Associated Press back of the week.

Benham, a little passing wizard from Portsmouth, Va., has been recognized for three seasons as the major part of Columbia's usually futile offense. Two days before last Saturday's Harvard game, he wasn't even expected to play because of a leg injury and Columbia's rating dipped accordingly.

But Benham not only played, he stayed in there the full 60 minutes and personally led Columbia to a 26-20 upset victory. Statistics can't measure his performance but he completed 11 of 21 passes for 171 yards, scored one touchdown, passed for two and handed off for the other, harassed the Crimson with his running on rollout plays and was superb on defense.

The honorable mention list includes Jimmy Brown, Syracuse and Milt Plum, Penn State.

Benham was the second eastern player selected for top honors this week. Ed Bailey, Syracuse guard, was named AP Lineman of the Week for his defensive feats in stopping Army inches short of a tying touchdown.

Whitey Is Homebody GLEN COVE, N. Y. (AP)—While most of the New York Yankees were rooting for Milwaukee to win the National League pennant because of its larger stadium, Whitey Ford had hoped the Brooklyn Dodgers would win out. "I've been traveling all year," said the ace southpaw. "I'd like to play the Series close to home."

Donations Of Blood Play Major Role In Struggle To Save Human Lives

"Secondly, blood can be preserved for blood transfusion no longer than 21 days. At the end of this time, it must be discarded or must be converted to plasma or some other type of blood derivative. However, present medical methods do not use any great amount of these blood plasma derivatives, and it is poor economy to allow blood to become outdated. For this reason, there must be a constant new supply of blood coming into the blood bank.

Thirdly, blood cannot be given to a patient till it has been processed, the processing including the drawing from the donor, proper blood typing, testing for certain diseases (mainly syphilis), and then crossmatching with the patient's blood to make sure that the patient can receive this particular blood unit. This is rather time consuming and it can easily be seen that in an emergency it is not a very efficient way of managing.

Practice
"In actual practice, when the blood bank is functioning well, the processed blood is already available in the icebox or can be obtained on short notice from the Regional Blood Center, and time is spent only in crossmatching it for the patient. This test takes up to an hour to perform but in severe emergencies, special short-cut methods can be used so that the transfusion can be started in a shorter period.

"Imagine, on the other hand, a patient coming to the hospital who is hemorrhaging from the stomach, let us say. He is found to have an unusual type, let us say O RH negative. None of this blood is available in the blood bank and none can be obtained from Wilkes-Barre because the blood donations have been scanty and not enough blood of this type has been collected. The confusion that results is hard to imagine unless you have actually experienced it.

"To begin with, telephone calls must be made to dozens if not hundreds of people to try to find a donor of the right type who, 1. Is home at the time, 2. Who is willing to give blood, 3. Has transportation available to bring them to the hospital, 4. Does not happen to be ill at the moment so that he cannot give blood. Having by luck rounded up a number of people, they must come to the hospital which may be a question of anywhere from 15 minutes to an hour depending upon where they live. It is then necessary to draw the blood, a process which takes roughly a half hour.

Check
"The blood must then be checked to make sure that it is of the proper type, a quick test for syphilis must be made (although, I suppose, in a serious emergency the risk of transmission is small and can be taken), and then the blood must be crossmatched for the patient. This involves time, at least two hours and perhaps as much as six hours. You can easily see that it is not safe for the patient, and it is not efficient as far as the hospital functioning is concerned.

"Let us look at it from another angle, the question of money, even though this should not bear any weight when it comes to saving life. As the blood bank operates at the present time through the Regional Center, the cost is distributed through the citizenry of the County by its donations to the Red Cross.

I'm not able to quote the exact amount that it costs to process each unit of blood, but I do know that it is far less than it would cost would have to be added to the same unit, were the hospital required to do the work itself. This cost would have to be added to the hospitalization cost of the patient and would have to be paid somehow, either directly by the patient if he or she can afford it, through some source of charity funds.

Obvious
"It is quite obvious that blood cannot be manufactured no matter how much money be available for this purpose. It is also quite evident that the Red Cross nor any other blood bank cannot provide blood unless blood is contributed. Blood can be obtained only by donation in a spirit of social responsibility, a spirit of humanitarianism, and in simple words in a spirit of 'help they neighbor.' "At the General Hospital we give well over a thousand trans-fusions a year. I don't know how many individual patients receive transfusions although these figures could be obtained but, by and large, through the United States it has been shown that each individual has a one in ten chance of requiring hospitalization in any one year.

"Along the same line, about 25 per cent of hospital patients require blood transfusions so that it resolves itself down to a one to roughly forty chance that you as an individual will wind up in a hospital and require a blood transfusion this year. You can see then that the likelihood of your, or one of your loved ones needing emergency, or even simple urgent blood transfusion is reasonably high. You cannot afford to risk your life or the lives of people you love by ignoring the appeal for blood donations.

"I am asking you to print this letter without having submitted to the Red Cross or the Hospital Administration for clearance. I can see nothing in this public appeal I make, to be contrary to hospital policy or Red Cross policy. Please consider this message, discuss it with your friends, and make the Red Cross blood program part of your way of life."

Display Advertising Copy

DEADLINES

Advertising copy deadlines, just as news copy deadlines, are necessary . . . in fact, are imperative to the publication of a newspaper.

Enforcement of deadlines makes it possible to give readers a better newspaper, delivered on schedule. A better newspaper, promptly delivered to all sections of the trading area, means a better advertising medium.

It follows that adequate time for the proper handling of advertising copy, without interference with the mechanics of news production . . . and without jeopardizing the "on time" delivery of the newspaper . . . permits the better handling of advertising copy to work to the advantage of the advertiser in a better advertising medium.

In the interest of better serving ALL advertisers, all copy for display advertising, including CLASSIFIED DISPLAY, must meet the following deadlines:

Monday Copy 5 P.M. Friday
Tuesday Copy 12 Noon Saturday
Wednesday Copy 5 P.M. Monday
Thursday Copy 5 P.M. Tuesday
Friday Copy 5 P.M. Wednesday
Saturday Copy 5 P.M. Thursday

Stroudsburg Lions Launch Annual Attendance Contest

LION BILL Kopenhaver, now piloting the Stroudsburg Lions' attendance contest, got the program off to a formal start Tuesday night at the Penn-Stroud Hotel. All contest teams were represented.

One of the novelties was the introduction of a contest mascot, a baby rabbit. The Lion receiving the rabbit each week will be obligated to keep it for the following week and then to turn it over to a new booby prize winner. The first "Custodian of the Bunny" was former President Cy Katz.

Guests Al Caldwell, one of the club's new members, brought as guests Gene Martin, dean of men and head coach of the East Stroudsburg State Teachers College football team and John Eller, assistant dean and head soccer coach at the same school on the hill. Other guests were Lester Katz and Charles McMahon.

Lion President Harold Miller called attention of the members to the opening of the annual Community Chest Drive. He also extended a cordial welcome on the part of the club to Lion Rev. Luther Markin of Delaware Water Gap, who made an extended trip through the West this summer. The trip carried into Arizona.

Miller announced that Tail Twister James Cummings has been admitted to the General Hospital for observation. He appointed Lion William Hannas as tail twister for the night.

Edmund Buck assisted by Jerome Rubin were extended the courtesy of the floor and explained to the members certain objections to the Stroudsburg Thruway. They urged the members to attend a meeting at the YMCA Thursday night when the Thruway will be under discussion.

Church Pledge Hits $8,055

PEN ARGYL—Pledges and cash totaling $8,055 to meet the cost of the redecoration of the church sanctuary were offered Sunday at the special services of the Pen Argyl Zion Methodist Church. Of this total $7,213 was in cash.

The $8,000 asked for was necessary to meet the $13,000 cost of the newly renovated sanctuary. Albert Cameron, Philadelphia church layman, spoke at the morning service and the pastor, Rev. Robert Sheesley, presented his sermon at night. The sanctuary was reopened for use following its renovation, to mark 62nd anniversary of the present church building and 87th anniversary of Methodism in Pen Argyl.

Here is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your future. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

Eisenhower Breaks Down Bomb Tests

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24 (AP)—President Eisenhower disclosed today that all tests of atomic weapons or "devices" conducted by this country since 1954, 20 per cent—one in every five—have involved thermonuclear—H-bomb—designs.

It was the first official disclosure of the scope of testing in the "high yield" weapons field.

The figures were disclosed in a memorandum prepared by executive branch officials—presumably the Atomic Energy Commission and the Defense Department—and released by the President.

Relating that 13 test series have been conducted by this country dating from the first test in New Mexico in 1945, the memorandum said:

"Of the shots in the several series, approximately 20 per cent have been of high yield thermonuclear designs and 80 per cent of fission devices."

The memorandum also declared, among other things, that the United States has steadily learned how to make weapons using less material than preceding designs; 2. Learned to make designs "of smaller configuration and lighter weight" than others—presumably for use as tactical weapons on the battlefield; and 3. Learned to make weapons having "high yield" in terms of energy release but low production of fission products—that is, the products that constitute radioactive fallout.

On the later development, the memorandum added:

"The successful attainment of this objective will make it possible for us to have weapons with greatly reduced radiological hazard—fallout."

Among other major points offered in the memorandum were these:

The United States system for long-range detection of atomic and hydrogen bomb tests by other nations "can not insure the detection of every test irrespective of size, location, or type and composition of the weapon tested."

Also, the document declared that this monitoring program "employs a variety of systems" but that for security reasons their details "should remain classified."

"A determination as to size and nuclear character of detected weapons—that is, whether A-bomb or H-bomb—can not be reached immediately upon detection, nor for several weeks and occasionally months thereafter," said the document, adding:

"This is particularly true with respect to the larger, more complicated thermonuclear devices."

President Eisenhower, in a separate statement of his own, referred to tests of "very large weapons," said, "We believe we have detected practically all such tests to date."

Russia Faces Major World Problem

By J. M. ROBERTS

Associated Press News Analyst

Can Russia afford to let Poland get away with it?

The chief indication that she will lie in the time that has been allowed to pass since Khrushchev left Warsaw with a bug in his ear. Reports, however tenuous, that Russian troops were moving into Poland from East Germany in unusual numbers even before the national Communist coup came to a head naturally caused suspense. The question is whether the Russians seriously attempted intimidation. Presumably they have enough strength anyway to restore Russian control if they wish to use it.

Russia has been caught in poor position. She has no means of defending her "live and let live" agreement with Yugoslavia's Tito unless she is also willing to extend it to Poland and the other satellites. Yet by letting them get out of hand she endangers the buffer arrangement she set up between herself and Germany after the terrible fight handed her in World War II.

There seems little chance that the satellites will slip completely away. The movement in Poland has not gone that far. The Warsaw Communists are merely trying to assume a position similar, but not entirely parallel to Yugoslavia's. They have said nothing so far about abrogating the Warsaw mutual defense pact with Russia.

No Shift
Even with Rokossovsky out as defense minister, there can be no sudden shift of the army's cooperation with Russia because of its dependence for supplies and its interlocking command.

Economic ties have become too complex for sudden reversal. Poland's desire for increased economic cooperation with the West, however, is strong testimony that economic communism isn't working within the Russian sphere.

The new leaders have already recognized, however, that they must live with Russia, and appear to have been careful to keep open the means of communication between the two countries. Hereafter they expect to negotiate instead of taking orders. That's all.

If Russia refuses to accept this situation, if she moves to reestablish her authority by force when she was not able to maintain it through political and economic action, she will have taken a fateful step toward loss of whatever standing she has in the eyes of the world's neutrals. The failure of her entire sweetness and light program would be only too clear. She would stand naked as the one country in the world which is moving toward, rather than away, from colonialism.

Jenner Demands Ouster Of Reds
WASHINGTON, Oct. 24 (AP)—Sen. Jenner (R-Ind.) today demanded the expulsion of two Soviet diplomats he said helped smuggle 2½-year-old Tanya Chavostov out of the United States.

Jenner, acting chairman of the Senate Internal Security subcommittee named the Russians as Fedor Solomatkin, second secretary of the Soviet embassy here, and Konstantin P. Ekimov, first secretary of the Soviet delegation to the U.N. in New York.

Minister Defends Rock 'n Roll

PEASMARSH, England, Oct. 24 — The Rev. Lewis Roberts, Anglican vicar, wrote in his parish magazine "it is possible that Christ was used to music and dancing very much like rock 'n' roll. He did not condemn it. He did not stop it. So why should we? We have all been young once and this world would be a dismal place if these exercise of our limbs and vocal organs were regarded as criminal and sinful."
